

K-Love is very important to me and my family. They offer excellent, inspiring, uplifting, encouraging concepts and ideas daily, as well as exposing us to music we do not hear elsewhere. The music also is inspiring, uplifting and encouraging. These aspects of their program are imperative to balance the rest of the media, and are unique. I believe the impact in psychological healing to many wounded, fearful, anxious and disturbed people in all communities they served is of exceptional value which cannot be fully measured. These people are unlikely to seek or find this counseling and support in other venues, and there are many who could not afford it if they wanted to seek it elsewhere.

Not allowing K-Love to broadcast on FM will drastically limit its audience, and will it unavailable to many who listen to regularly and less likely to be discovered by others who could actually immensely benefit from its programming. Since it has such a healthy effect on its listening audience, removing its access to FM translators is in effect robbing people of necessary and counseling and wholesome music. The public at large benefits when people are helped, healed, encouraged, educated and strengthened and to take away such a powerful force for health and wholeness has serious ramifications on everyone. With the vast majority of the media drawing listeners and increasing their ratings by preying on their fears, anxieties, insecurities and frustrations, for profit, it is important to offer balancing alternatives that are not influenced by the need for monetary gain at the expense of the listeners emotional health, sense of well being and hope. In the day of declining access to social services, please do not remove this free source from the majority of the public.
